Doing What MATTERS™

FOR JOBS AND THE ECONOMY

This course was designed to prepare health care providers for their role as preceptors. The program provides the tools and motivation for the preceptor to be effective in transitioning students or new staff into the clinical environment. Four preceptor roles were identified in the job analysis: role model, educator, facilitator and evaluator.

Core Behavioral Objectives:

At the completion of course content, the participant will be able to:

- Describe the roles and responsibilities of the preceptor and preceptee.
- Describe the attributes of a preceptor as role model.
- Demonstrate the educational process for assessment, planning and implementation of learning experiences.
- Apply strategies to facilitate socialization of employee/student into work environment and foster critical thinking.
- Utilize techniques in formative and summative evaluation processes.
